WINDBURN BLUSH

This year's answer to 'cold girl make-up?' Windburn blush. "With placement, pop your blusher (choose punchy powders over creams) lower down on cheeks where you'd naturally flush post-workout," says Gallimore, who used a fluffy brush to build intensity.

GET THE GLOSS

Line your lips with a berry-toned pencil, smudge it lightly with a brush or your finger and pop a high-shine gloss over the top. "The contrast of the darker outline with the clear central gloss makes your lips look instantly fuller," says Gallimore.
